The Board then, en motion, adjourned. From the minmice.

Houston, Texas, October 13, 1880.
To the Editor of The Tribune:

As the period approaches for testing by popular vote the question of acceptance or rejection of the (Pearce) boundary compromise, public sentiments gains strength in its favor. You may set it down in your political calculations that the citizens of Texas will accept the bill by at least a two-thirds vote,-notwithstanding the influence of our Military Governor and a few aspiring politicians. Texans are not backward in fighting when they have any thing of a taugible nature to fight for, but they will not fight for mere abstract theories, and against their fellow citizens of this glorious Unios, of which though one of the youngest, we claim to be one of the most loyal integral parts. Yours truly, Solo.

Dear correspondent! we never had a doubt of the conclusion you indicate. If Texas had been offered Ten Millions for the line of 32° North, she would have jumped at it. Her People are no fools,
